The Label is located inside the compartment of connector slots, which must be seen when the AC power line plug into the device before turnning it on.