

Software controlled, no tune up procedure over the power range or at specific operating power levels.