Photosensitive Seizures

A very small percentage of people may experience a seizure when exposed to certain visual images, including flashing lights or patterns that may appear in some video games, even people who have no history of seizures or epilepsy. These seizures have a variety of symptoms, including lightheadedness, altered vision, disorientation, loss of awareness, involuntary movements, loss of consciousness, or convulsions. If you experience any of these symptoms, stop gaming immediately and consult your doctor.

Ergonomics

Long periods of repetitive motion using incorrect body positioning may be associated with physical discomfort and injuries to nerves, tendons, and muscles. If during or after gaming you feel pain, numbness, weakness, swelling, burning, cramping, or stiffness, stop gaming and consult your doctor.

Healthy Gaming

To reduce risk of seizures or injury, take the following precautions:
