Locate system information

System information is provided on the service label or found in one of the following locations: the bottom of the computer, the back of the display, inside the battery bay, or beneath the service door. The label may be in paper form or imprinted on the product.

To view system information on your computer, type chrome://system into the browser.

Regulatory, Safety, and Environmental Notices

For important regulatory notices, including information about proper battery disposal, if needed, go to <http://www.hp.com/support>, and follow the instructions to find your product. Then select Manuals.

WARNING: To reduce the risk of electric shock:

- Plug the power cord into an AC outlet that is easily accessible at all times.
- If the power cord has a 3-pin attachment plug, plug the cord into a grounded (earthed) 3-pin outlet.

For more safety, regulatory, labeling, and battery disposal information, see the Regulatory, Safety, and Environmental Notices provided with your user guides. To locate the user guides for your computer, see the "Get help or more information" section of this poster.

WARNING: To reduce the risk of serious injury, read the Safety & Comfort Guide provided with your user guides. It describes proper workstation setup, and proper posture, health, and work habits for computer users. The Safety & Comfort Guide also provides important electrical and mechanical safety information. The Safety & Comfort Guide is also available on the web at <http://www.hp.com/ergo>.

WARNING: To reduce the possibility of heat-related injuries or of overheating the computer, do not place the computer directly on your lap or obstruct the computer air vents. Use the computer only on a hard, flat surface. Do not allow another hard surface, such as an adjoining optional printer, or a soft surface, such as pillows or rugs or clothing, to block airflow. Also, do not allow the AC adapter to contact the skin or a soft surface, such as pillows or rugs or clothing, during operation. The computer and the AC adapter comply with the user-accessible surface temperature limits defined by applicable safety standards.
