

Data Reuse from prior application filings.

Manufacturer declares:

As the radio ICs and RF layout are unchanged in the 6803 from the 6800, the original test data for the 6800 continues to show compliance in the 6803.

For further details, see description under operational description exhibits.

Due to change to approved antenna, radiated spurious emissions test in new report usurps data in original report. The power output data in new report is a validation (within measurement uncertainty) of the original data.