Subject: FCCID# Report Filing with Wrong User's Manual

BI has recently become aware that an error was made when an FCCID# report was filed in 2003.

On January 27, 2003, a TCB acting in BI's behalf submitted the documents that supported the certification of an intentional radiator with FCCID# CSQHG200C. Included in this document package was a complete user's manual, titled "BI HomeGuard 200 Officer's Reference Manual". Included in this manual is information that is not intended to be viewed by an offender on electronic house arrest. The Manual is for use by Officers only. The original intent was that only the first seven pages, containing required FCC statements, be included in the document package.

BI is aware that this manual has been available to the general public since January 27, 2003. We are requesting, via another letter, that the original 130-page manual be removed from the FCCID# website and replaced with an abbreviated manual that includes only the first seven pages.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Bobby Clevenger", is written over a horizontal line.
