Location services. Your mobile device can provide location information to applications, using sources including GPS (GPS, AGPS, Galileo, GLONASS and Beidou - depending on the device specification) and Wi-Fi. Global Positioning System) uses your wireless service provider's network to improve performance. Airtime, data fees, and/or additional charges may apply in accordance with your service plan.

These applications may share location information with third parties, including your wireless service provider, applications providers, Motorola, Lenovo, and other third parties providing services.

Emergency calls: When you make an emergency call, the cellular network may activate the AGPS technology in your phone to tell the emergency responders your approximate location. AGPS has limitations and may not work in your area. Therefore:

- Always tell the emergency responder your location to the best of your ability; and
- Remain on the call for as long as the emergency responder instructs you.

be registered with Motorola and/or Lenovo; this will be a one-time registration. Confirming the mobile phone/tablet's activation will facilitate after-sales service to you by verifying the product's authenticity. For the registration, the data transmitted is less than 1KB.
