

The customer would like approval for both options

The first batches will have FCC Id label in the battery compartment, while they test the usability and biocompatibility implications for the option to put on the bottom face.

